

Melissa Horner
Manitoba Métis Federation/
Turtle Mountain Band of Chippewa
PhD Candidate of Sociology
University of Missouri

ONGOING U.S. SETTLER COLONIALISM & NATIVE PEOPLES

A free, public, asynchronous online course about recognizing and responding to ongoing settler colonialism as a social structure in the United States.

Perspectives from Indigenous Peoples/Native Nations illuminate examples of current settler colonialism as it shows up in education, law, food systems, race/ethnicity, media, land, gender, environment, and health/medicine, among others.

Through the course, participants will better understand ongoing settler colonialism and (re)imagine anti-colonial processes in the U.S. as a way to co-create thriving futures.

Lectures • Artwork •
Readings • Discussions •
Videos • Activities • Reflections

HEALTH POLICY
RESEARCH
SCHOLARS